ALMA IMHOFF LAURITSEN PROFILE

Alma Marianne Imhoff was the youngest of six children of Will and Marianne Albertson Imhoff. Both parents spent their childhoods in Kansas sod houses, their parents originally from Indiana.

The family farm was four miles from Bostwick, Nuckolls County, Nebraska. The town no longer exists, but visits to the farm bring memories of Cousins, classmates and friends who filled the lively surroundings with rich experiences. Sandy Knob, the country school, housed less than a dozen students, each class able to eavesdrop on lessons from first to eighth grade.

In moneyless depression days when Alma was 18, the estate of a great-uncle, John Utter, San Francisco lawyer, included funds to Alma's mother. Seventy-five dollars from this estate took Alma to summer school at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. This was the beginning of a long and roundabout route to a college degree, and was the only money for school that was not self earned. She worked at the Lincoln City Library for seven years, taking University classes.

On December 29, 1940, she married Carl Lauritsen, a law student. With war imminent, Carl was stationed at Camp Claiborne, Louisiana at the time of Pearl Harbor. He was sent to the South Pacific for three years continuous duty.

During those years Alma lived in Portland, Oregon where their son Martin was born. Drouth and depression had altered midwestern farm life and Alma's widowed mother, sister and two brothers had also come to Portland.

On return to the states, Carl's other army service took his family to Paris, Texas; Fort Benning, Georgia; and three years in Washington where he was in the Judge Advocate Department.

Once more civilians, the family farmed for fifteen years at Edinburg, Texas. In 1960, Alma resumed her college work at PanAmerican College at Edinburg, and also taught in the elementary school. Working full time and with the patient help of husband and children, she earned her degree just thirty years after starting college. Daughter Janet graduated from High school the same year. The other children included Martin, Glen born at Ft. Myer, Virginia, and Wayne and John born in Texas.

In 1964, Alma began teaching in Special Education at Santa Barbara, California. In 1973, a trip around the world was a change of pace. Included was a special visit to Herning Denmark where Carl's ancestors had lived.

Alma retired from teaching in 1976 and has enjoyed the chance to pursue her interest in writing and in Family History.

Character lies in the genes. The stalwart soul has the will to live, and is eager for the race, but the feeble soul merely whines and claims that "they" oppressed him and prevented him from reaching "my potential."

Taylor Caldwell.

LOCAL HISTORY - UCSB SPECIAL SUMMER PROGRAM

University of California Extension, Santa Barbara is presenting a special summer program in Local History. The series is designed for teachers, staff members of historical societies and museums, volunteers, and citizens interested in the history of their community. A number of eminent specialists will be coming to Santa Barbara during the summer term to give workshops, seminars, and classes on new approaches and ideas in community, oral, ethnic, family and state history.

The program begins Saturday, July 26, with a one-day seminar called "Family History and Genealogy" with Dr. Ben Bloxham, professor of history and director of the Institute of Family and Local History at Brigham Young University. A noted lecturer and scholar in both the fields of history and genealogy, Dr. Bloxham will discuss how to get started in doing family history research, exploring both the genealogical and historical approaches. Dr. Bloxham is also a specialist on British local history and genealogy, and will devote one part of his seminar to problems of tracing ancestors to the British Isles. The course is open to both beginners and advanced students.

Dr. Charles Morrissey, one of the leading oral historians in the United States, will teach "Oral History" from Monday, July 28 through Friday, August 1. This introductory course views oral history interviewing as a new technique for obtaining and preserving the spoken recollections of people involved in events of historical significance. It is aimed primarily for students who intend to utilize oral history as a research tool in probing questions of public policy in "public history" projects, and also for regional historians who want to record interviews in order to document local history and the history of sites and structures which are preservation projects in their communities.

Dr. Morrissey will discuss all aspects of oral history, focusing on practical "how-to-do-it" advice about developing interviewing skills, and how to apply them to different types of interviewees. In-class interviewing experiences will illustrate problems which arise in oral history and methods of dealing with them.

Dr. Morrissey headed the John F. Kennedy project, the oral history of the Ford Foundation, and most recently served as director of the Former Members of Congress Project in Washington, D.C. He has also served as president of the Oral History Association, and has written extensively on the use of oral history for local and national history. During this workshop, he will be assisted by Ava Kahn, specialist in oral history at UCSB.

Taking place during the annual Santa Barbara Fiesta, the "Workshop on Local History and the Community" will feature roundtables, panel sessions, a practicum and special lectures by a number of prominent historians, including James Moss, Director of the California Historical Society, and Wesley Johnson and Thomas Fuller of UCSB. Some of the topics to be covered during the series include local history, ethnic history, community history, demography, volunteer history projects and Indian history. The course meets on August 1, 2 and 3 and is co-sponsored by the Santa Barbara Graduate program in Public Historical Studies.

AUGUST 2, 1980 MEETING - SANTA BARBARA PUBLIC LIBRARY - FAULKNER GALLERY
 Speaker, Colin R. Chapman, General Secretary, Family History Societies Fed.

Colin R. Chapman, General Secretary of the Federation of Family History Societies, whose postal address is The Drovers, Cambridge, Gloucester GL2 7AN, England, is scheduled to speak at the World Conference on Genealogy and Family History at Salt Lake City August 8, 1980, and has written the Santa Barbara County Genealogical Society secretary that he plans to visit San Francisco friends 28 July- 1 Aug.

Santa Barbara County Genealogical Society is honored and privileged to announce that Mr. Chapman will come to Santa Barbara, planning to be here from August 1 to 6. Saturday, August 2, is the regular meeting date and arrangements are being made to meet at a larger than usual room and invite friends and members of other Southern California societies to attend. The meeting will be held at the newly remodeled Santa Barbara Public Library and arrangements are being made for use of the Faulkner Gallery during Library hours (10 to 5:30 on Saturday). The hour has not yet been set but probably will be in the afternoon as the Children's Parade on the last day of Fiesta will occur during morning hours. This may prove an added attraction for out-of-town visitors. It is something very special.

Santa Barbara County Genealogical Society is reported to be the first American county society to become affiliated with the Federation of Family History Societies. The association is proving interesting and beneficial. Exchange quarterlies or bulletins of several English societies, both county and one-name (surname) organizations have been received and are in the Society library at the Coleto Community Center. Members are looking forward to the possibility of a report of the First British Family History Conference organized by the Bedfordshire Family History Society at Bedford College of Higher Education, and held March 28 - April 1, 1980. At that conference Mr. Chapman lectured on Pre-1841 Censuses. Other lectures included Manor Court Rolls, Dr. F. G. Emmison, MBE, Patron of BFHS; 17th Century Emigrants, Mr. Noel Correr-Briggs (who lectured in Santa Barbara a few years ago in an Adult Education series); Non-conformist Records, Mr. C. R. Humphery-Smith; Photography and the Family Historian, Mr. F. Wright.

Bedford was the birthplace of John Bunyan (author of Pilgrim's Progress), John Howard (the Prison Reformer) and first became popular as an academic center with the 19th century development of schools originally endowed by Sir William Harpur, Lord Mayor of London in 1552. A stage-coach resting place for those travelling north and the River Ouse bringing coal via the wash and being situated between the university cities of Oxford and Cambridge, Bedford became an important center for travellers of all classes. The County Record Offices of Buckinghamshire (at Aylesbury), Northamptonshire (at Northampton), old Huntingdonshire (at Huntingdon), old Cambridgeshire (at Cambridge), Hertfordshire (at Hertford) and Oxfordshire (at the Bodleian Library, Oxford) are within a three-quarter hour drive from Bedford and are accessible by public transport.

THROUGH ANCESTORS WEST I HIT THE JACKPOT Amy Harwode

With the help of three wonderful people, Shirley Gorevin, editor/typist of the Ventura County Genealogical Society, who read my Ancestor Chart in the June, 1979 issue of ANCESTORS WEST, Robert Hulburt, and Elgin Blaine Hurlbert, Capt. U.S.N. Ret., I now have a much extended record.

She sent me a copy of a manuscript of a Robert Hulburt, a friend of her late husband, at Fort Huene. Also attached were pages from Elgin Blaine Hurlbert of Pacific Grove, who also had my line. After corresponding with him, he promptly wrote back giving me a complete genealogy of the Hurlbert Family. This nice man has offered to relinquish his room at the "Mapleleaf Reunion" of the Hurlbert family at the Conference Center at Pacific Grove, known as Asilomar and owned by the State of California, a lovely spot. The reunion will be July 23 and 24. He and his wife will sleep in their motor home as the reservations are sold out. Genealogists just have to be the greatest!

1982 - SANTA BARBARA BICENTENNIAL YEAR

Mary Louise Days, a committee member.

At the instigation of Mayor David T. Shiffman a broad-based civic committee has been formed to celebrate Santa Barbara's bicentennial in 1982. The community was founded on April 21, 1782 with the establishment of the Spanish Royal Presidio by Rev. Junipero Serra, Sgt. Jose Ortega and Governor Felipe de Neve.

The first meeting of the Bicentennial Assembly, comprising representatives of many civic, cultural, fraternal and service organizations was held recently in the City Hall. The observance will take place during the 1982 calendar year. Committees will be established and a theme selected. Enthusiasm is high already in the community.

AUTOGRAPH PARTY - JUNE 8, 1980

at the Santa Barbara Royal Presidio Padre's Quarters site.

MISSION LA PURISIMA CONCEPCION, fifth book in the Storke Foundation Bicentennial Series, an archeological and restoration study, profusely illustrated with reproductions of photographs, etc., originally made by Fred C. Hageman and Russell C. Ewing, reprinted, and edited by Richard S. Whitehead of Santa Barbara and published by the Santa Barbara Trust for Historic Preservation, will be made available for purchase and autographing by Mr. Whitehead on the afternoon of Sunday, June 8, 1980, on the Presidio premises at 123 East Canon Perdido Street, Santa Barbara.

La Purisima Mission is located on El Camino Real, the original highway that connected the missions of California. After leaving the presidio and mission at Santa Barbara the road followed the coast as far as Gaviota Pass where it turned inland and crossed over to the Santa Ynez River. Beyond Lompoc, at La Purisima the road veered north once again, passing the mission and continuing up LaCañada de los Berros, the canyon of the watercross, to Mission San Luis Obispo.

PIONEER TRAILS - MIGRATION ROUTES

Alta California was developed by the Spanish in a period corresponding with the Revolutionary period in the British colonies on the Atlantic coast: Mission and Presidio at San Diego 1769; 1770 Mission San Carlos at Carmel on the Monterey peninsula by Fr. Junipero Serra, soon followed by the Presidio at Monterey, the provincial capital: October 9, 1776 Mission Dolores in Yerba Buena, later to be known as San Francisco, also the site of one of the four Presidios: April 21, 1782 the Presidio of Santa Barbara and December 4, 1786, Mission Santa Barbara.

After the American Revolution the colonists on the Atlantic seaboard realized that their destiny lay westward. Bounty lands in the Northwest Territory (the area that later became Ohio) were settled by Virginia and New England veterans. Several privately organized tracts also became populated.

One of the first expeditions was that of the Boston Marine Association. The "Columbia", Capt. Robert Gray, Master, set sail in 1790 for the Pacific Northwest and in 1792 finally succeeded in breaking through the waters of Deception Bay and discovered the river named in honor of the vessel. Expedition reports did much to stimulate emigration to Oregon.

The Oregon Trail ran from Fort Leavenworth or from Omaha on the Missouri River westward along the Platte from Fort Kearney to Fort Laramie, through the South Pass to Fort Bonneville, up to Fort Hall and Fort Boise and on to Walla Walla and to Fort William (now Portland) and Port Vancouver across the Columbia River.

The Mormon Trail from St. Joseph, Missouri, also followed the Platte River and from Fort Bridger below the South Pass went to Salt Lake City.

The California Trail of the Forty-Niners went north from the South Pass to the Humboldt River and through Virginia City to the gold mines and Sacramento.

The Pony Express ran further south to Carson City.

The Santa Fe Trail ran from Independence or Westport Landing (now Kansas City) on the Missouri, across Kansas to the Arkansas River to Fort Dodge, then down to Santa Fe by one route and by another on to Bent's Fort and then down to Santa Fe.

A Spanish Trail led from Santa Fe north and west to Los Angeles. Another route known as the Santa Fe Trail went south to the Gila Bend Trail and westward to San Diego.

East of the Mississippi, Boone's Wilderness Road from North Carolina, through the Cumberland Gap, gave access to Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois.

Much of the travel from New England and the mid-Atlantic states made use of barges on the Ohio River. The Cumberland (National) Road ran from Cumberland, Maryland to Vandalia, Illinois, across what is now Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

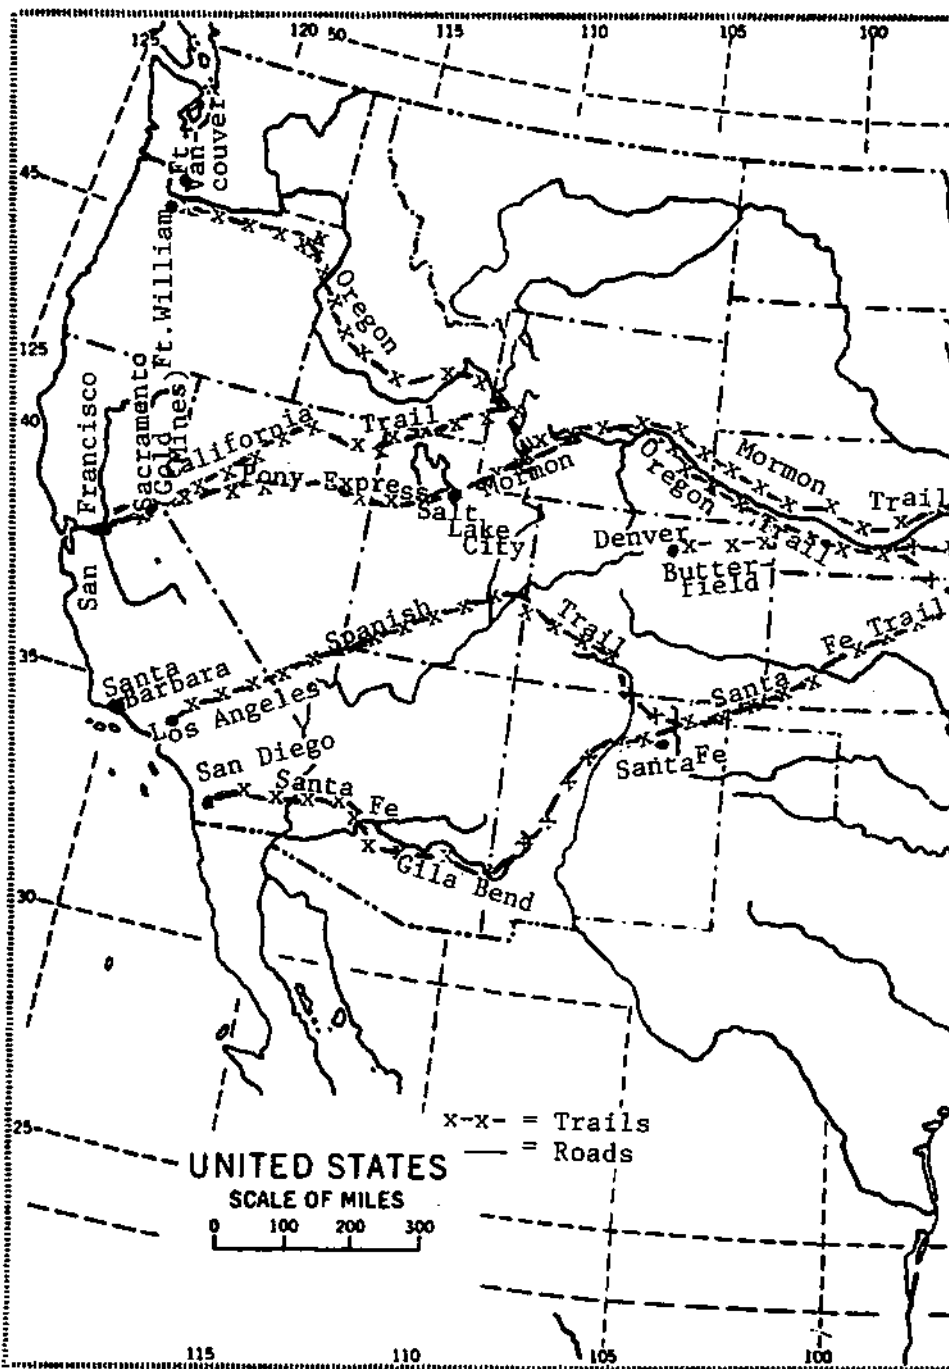

The Boston Post Road ran to New York and the Great Road went on down through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, across Virginia to Charleston, South Carolina. Roads westward across Pennsylvania to Pittsburgh (Fort Kuquesyne) were Forbes Road, the Turnpike and Braddock's Road. The Mohawk Road crossed New York State, as did the Erie Canal later.

The location of these trails and roads is shown on the accompanying map.

The Ohio Archives Office has published an excellent map showing the location of military, refugee, private land company and other tracts within the area of that state.

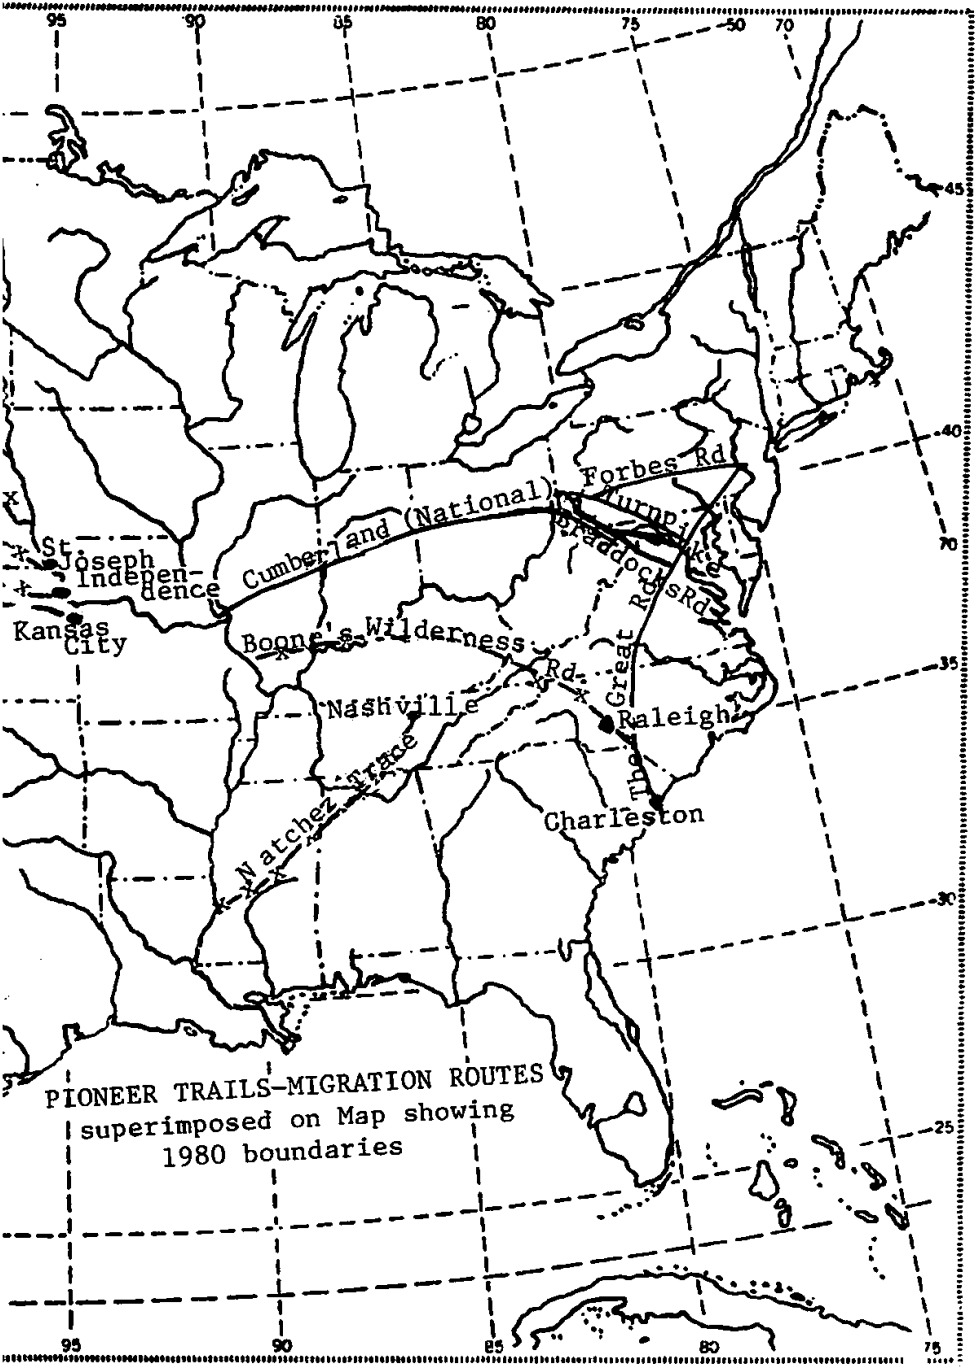

An article on the Northwest Territory appeared in the April, 1959 issue of the Daughters of the American Revolution magazine, illustrated with a map of the Pioneer Trails to that Territory.

Several reference works are available at the main Santa Barbara Public Library. The map reproduced in the March 1979 ANCESTORS WEST shows the 1852 conception by Easterners of the territory west of the Mississippi River. Hence, the use of a map showing present state boundaries.

LIBRARY AIDS - SBCGS LIBRARY

Alma Imhoff Lauritsen

There are three guides to the library holdings:

1. The book catalog is an alphabetical list of all books contained in the library. Books are listed by a card for author, a card for title and one or more cards for subject matter. The latter may indicate location, surnames, war records and general references. The heading "Family History" is a listing of the surnames for which the library has individual genealogies and includes papers in the surname file as well as books on the shelves.

2. "Periodicals in the library" is a record of the genealogical publications in the library, which are listed by state. Canada and England are also represented. The periodicals are arranged on the shelves alphabetically by state, with some exceptions. Small issues may be in individual boxes. The series "Connecticut Nutmegger", "New England Historic Genealogical Register", and "Missouri Historical Review" are in the large corner cupboard.

3. The Reference Files in cardboard boxes contain pamphlets and reference material that add significantly to the scope of the library resources. The surname file contains small books and pamphlets on individual families, newspaper clippings, and the SBCGS members ancestral charts. The two boxes of subject file contain information on individual states, including some of the titles of books published about them, guides to state records and a wealth of miscellaneous materials.

SEARCHING FOR ANCESTRAL NAMES

An early task in genealogical research is to discover whether any information about a specific ancestor may have been published in books or articles. Some of the sources that may be of help are these:

- 929 Genealogical and Local History Books in Print
- 929.2 (Section of Books of Individual Families)
- 929.1 Founders of Early American Families
- 929.2 Ancestral Lines, by Boyer
- 974 New England Historic Genealogical Society. Catalogue to the circulating collection.
- 974 Colonial Families of the United States of America
- 975 same title as above
- 975.5 Cavaliers and Pioneers. Abstracts of Virginia Land Patents and Grants.

The surname file has charts, articles and small books on individual families.

The Family History section in the book catalog may aid in discovering family names.

Groups of researchers may form a family society for cooperative collecting of information, and may offer a wide range of information.

- 929 Hereditary Register of the United States of America has a section on Family Societies in its midsection. Each of 3 volumes has a varied list.
- Pilgrim families are documented in the library.
- 929.2 Mayflower Families
- 929.3 Mayflower Index (in corner cupboard)
- 929.3 Saints and Strangers.

SEARCHING AREAS

The genealogist needs information about the area where his ancestor was known to have lived.

The book catalog file will direct the searcher to the location of books about a certain state or area. A partial list follows:

California	979.4	Kentucky	976.9	Ohio	977.1
Connecticut	974.6	Massachusetts	974.4	Pennsylvania	974.8
Georgia	975.8	Missouri	977.8	So. Carolina	975.7
Illinois	977.3	New Jersey	974.97	Virginia	975.5

Genealogical periodicals are an important and continuing source of information about the areas where they are published.

The subject file has helpful facts on many areas and subject as well as guides to obtaining further information.

971 Your Ancient Canadian Family Ties may help locate a northern Ancestor. Canadian periodicals and the "Canada" file in the reference box will also help.

A partial list of books about England:

929.72 A Catalog of British Family Histories

929.8 Armorial Families

929.8 General Armory of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales

Other countries may be represented in the reference file and, of course, in "The Handy Guide for Genealogists".

Revolutionary War Records appear in several books:

929.2 DAR Patriot Index

973.3 Pictorial Book of the Revolution

973.3 Index of Revolutionary War Pension Applications in the National Archives

An important reference on Civil War personnel is 973.7 Tracing Your Civil War Ancestor.

FINDING UNPUBLISHED INFORMATION

The Library has a card file of Genealogical Societies including all states, Canada, England and Norway. This list also includes some addresses of family periodicals and societies. This list, with the pamphlet "Genealogical Libraries in the United States", are two important sources of information from a specific geographical area which may not have been published. The Library also has some 91 volumes, and index, of a collection known as the Hazard collection donated by its former president, Carlton M. Smith.

The Genealogical Helper, a periodical published in Utah, has a voluminous listing of names of searchers, wanting to exchange information on individuals and families. These periodicals do not become outdated and older copies provide helpful clues.

The library is staffed by volunteers who are members of the Santa Barbara County Genealogical Society and is open on Wednesday afternoons and Saturday meeting days. The public is welcome. Membership in the Society brings friendships, "cousins", and rich research benefits.

SANTA BARBARA PRESIDIO MEMBERS PRESENT AT THE FOUNDING OF LOS ANGELES on September 4, 1781

Russell A. Ruiz

Corp. Vicente Feliz, Jose Francisco de Lugo and Roque de Cota, members of the Santa Barbara Presidio garrison, were present at the founding of Los Angeles on September 4, 1781. They established families that played a prominent role in Los Angeles history as well as the history of California.

These men should be counted as fundadors or co-founders of Los Angeles with the Pabladores who are all always so honored. The three soldiers protected the infant community of Los Angeles. Corp. Vicente Feliz, a member of de Anza expedition is sometimes called the father of Los Angeles. Jose Francisco de Lugo is the ancestor of many prominent California historical personages. Roque de Cota was brother of the alferaz Don Pablo de Cota, second in command of the Santa Barbara Presidio.

These three men and their families are by every right co-founders of Los Angeles.

Corp. Vicente Feliz's wife died on the way to California. Jose Francisco de Lugo married Maria Viallnazul y Martinez. Roque de Cota married Maria Ignacia de Verdugo.

GUIDELINES FOR FAMILY HISTORY INTERVIEWS

Distributed at the Symposium on the Family and the Community
UCSB January 26-27, 1979

CONTACT AND RESEARCH PREPARATION

1. Obtain pertinent biographical data and a rough outline of the topics you wish to investigate from an initial contact with your interviewee. Keep good notes of this preliminary meeting. This initial contact also helps establish rapport if the interviewer and interviewee are not well acquainted.
2. Clarify your general goal for your interview.
3. Research your topic, if material is available, so that you can prepare an intelligent interview outline with pertinent questions. You should have some idea of the major national trends into which your specific focus fits.
4. If you plan to use written materials your interviewee has given you or you have located (e.g. photographs, letters, diaries, etc.), study them carefully and plan to utilize the relevant information in an organized, fruitful fashion.
5. Prior to your interview, give the interviewee an outline of the 3 or 4 general topics you intend to cover. Do not give him/her the list of questions.
6. Your interview outline should consist of a well-organized list of open-ended questions which permits you freedom to digress if new, unexpected topics come up. Your outline should be flexible enough so that you can achieve your basic goals for the interview within the time allotted and still allow for amplification on certain interesting points.
7. Reassure your interviewee, if necessary and appropriate, that portions of the interview will be kept confidential.
8. Practice with your equipment prior to the interview and be sure everything works. You should be very comfortable with the use of the tape recorder. Use an external microphone if possible for it enhances the quality of the recording. When you go to your interview take your equipment: your notes, materials, interview outline, at least two pens, a notebook, and an extension cord.
9. A short practice interview with a friend with another person observing can be very beneficial.

CONDUCTING THE INTERVIEW

1. Find a quiet spot, free of distractions. Ideally nobody else should be in the room. Background noise can inhibit understanding the tape later on - even an air conditioner or furnace fan. Place the microphone between yourself and your interviewee, rather than hold it. Test your recorder before you begin. Just because it worked at home does not mean it will work at your interview!
2. Start off with easy, friendly questions to establish a feeling of self-confidence within your interviewee and to put him/her at ease. Wait until the end of the interview to get into sensitive or contrpversial questions. Eye contact, your personal appearance, interest in and warmth towards your narrator, and other body and verbal gestures affect the outcome of your interview tremendously, even though you may know the individual very well.
3. Ask open-ended questions, ones which require more than a yes, no, or simple answer (except when you want specific information). Be relaxed and conversational in your approach. Useful introductory words include: "What all led up to . . ." "Tell me about . . ." "What all happened. . ." "What all went on inside you when . . ." (not "how did you feel:"); "I would like to hear . . ." (not "can you tell me . . .").
4. ASK ONE BRIEF QUESTION AT A TIME.
5. Don't let periods of silence fluster you. Your interviewee needs a chance to think about answers. Don't worry if you fumble occasionally; this reassures your interviewee that you are human. If your narrator is having trouble remembering, try taking him back to first the time period, then the setting and the people who were there.
6. Do not interrupt unless the narrator is speaking at length about an irrelevant topic. You can bring him/her back skillfully by picking up on a previously made point which interests you. "A minute ago you were talking about . . ."; "Now when you told me about . . ."

7. Skillful transitions also help you control your interview. "Tell me more about. . ." "How do you mean . . ."; "What do you think caused . . ."; "Now when you told me about . . ."

8. Attempt at all times to be an unbiased observer; don't evaluate or place value judgments on comments. Your own responses or lack of them can unwittingly encourage or discourage comment which is fine if it influences the direction you want your questions to go but not fine if it colors the kind of answers your narrator gives you.

9. Be a good listener; track your interview. Use your notebook to jot down proper names, ideas to which you want to return, etc.

10. Encourage your interviewee to be as specific as possible when it comes to establishing dates, locations, people involved at important points of the story. Be sure you know how your interviewee relates to the story as he tells it - is he/she reporting second-hand or were they actually present at the event being described?

11. Avoid challenging accounts you think inaccurate. Rather, offer counter evidence by saying: "Some people say . . ."; "I have read . . ."

12. Try to avoid "off-the-record" information. You may miss your best stories. Therefore it is best to leave the recorder on for the duration of the interview unless your interviewee becomes unduly upset.

13. Remember that the purpose of your interview is to learn the narrator's story, not to tell your own. "Good interviewers never shine! only their interviews do."

14. Limit your interview to 1-1/2 hours. You may not think you both are tired but you'll be surprised after you stop. You can always go back for another interview.

GALTON'S LAW OF INHERITANCE

From an editorial note in THE COMMONWEALTH PROFESSIONAL, June 1977, contributed by Bernice Mendillo.

Sir Francis Galton (1822-1911) was a cousin of Charles Darwin and not only an anthropologist, but a man of many parts with an acute analytical talent and pungent ironic expression when confronted by the unexposed weaknesses of some of the assumptions of the conventional wisdom of the day. He insisted on accurate measurement and enumeration. Galton was the author of provocative books and papers on heredity and eugenics, perhaps best remembered for the elegant brevity and clarity of his proposed law of inheritance in the use of the following mathematical infinite series converging to unity:

$$1/2 + 1/4 + 1/8 + 1/16 + 1/32 + 1/64 + 1/128 + 1/256 + \dots = 1.$$

Let 1 represent an individual being, then he (or she derives 1/2 of his characters from his 2 parents (1/4 from each); 1/4 from his 4 grandparents (1/16 from each); 1/8 from his 8 great-grandparents (1/64 from each); 1/16 from his 16 great-great-grandparents (1/256 from each); 1/32 from his 32 great-great-great-grandparents (1/1024 from each).

The inheritance of characters and propensities is indeed complex and even where they occur, they are not easily discoverable and discernible. The editor concludes: "After all, to paraphrase a current Australian oracular pronouncement, heredity, like life, was not meant to be easy!"

The Abbot Gregor Mendel (1822-1894) was born the same year as Galton.

Respecting your forefathers, you are brought to respect yourself.

Burke.

THE SECOND BOAT
P.O. BOX 398
MACHIAS, MAINE 04654

Co-Editors
Mary H. Dormer
Melinda M. Langdon
Rosemary E. Bachelor

A new quarterly magazine, THE SECOND BOAT, will begin publication in May. It specializes in Colonial American genealogy.

Editors describe THE SECOND BOAT as both an idea and a magazine. By SECOND BOAT ancestors they mean passengers on all ships bringing immigrants to American shores before 1650. The magazine specializes in data on them and their descendants through the Revolutionary War era.

The editors are former newspaper editor Rosemary Bachelor, former teacher Mary Dormer, and former Army captain Melinda Langdon, all residents of Machias, Maine. Rosemary and Mary also publish DOWNEAST ANCESTRY, a magazine of Maine family history, and THE EPISTLE, devoted to all U.S. branches of the Batchelder, Rice and Carpenter families.

THE SECOND BOAT will average at least 40 pages per issue, with an annual index included in a double-size issue. The magazine accepts free queries, will be illustrated with old drawings, and is printed on an offset press. Subject matter includes early ship passenger lists, profiles of early immigrants, family genealogies, lineage charts submitted by readers, and a variety of records pertaining to Colonial families. "We mean to deal with the thorniest of genealogical problems, but also want to chuckle in print about the oddities research-trail," Ms. Langdon said.

"Hundreds of genealogists contacting us are trying hardest to find prestigious 'first boat' lines. They are overjoyed if they find them, but disappointed when they can't. Hundreds of 'second boaters' founded towns, or worked just as hard clearing land and tilling soil. They are ancestors of hundreds of thousands of Americans and don't deserve a back row seat in the ancestral amphitheatre," Ms. Dormer said.

"Genealogy is our thing, but among us we draw from a talent pool which includes experience in writing, researching, publishing, handling business records and tackling big projects," reports Ms. Bachelor, who has been publishing genealogical data for nine years.

The editors envision THE SECOND BOAT as a communications tool for sharing genealogical data and a central clearing house for those researching Colonial lineages. "Without spending a cent on turnpike tolls, a nickel on gas, or a dime for travel expenses, you may become a voyager into family history by booking passage on the SECOND BOAT. You will find fellow passengers willing to lead you to places where your ancestors were born, married and died." one editor said.

The Vol. I $10.00 subscription rate entitles readers to four issues, beginning with the May, 1980 edition. (Late subscribers will receive the May issue with the August edition.) To order, send payment to THE SECOND BOAT, P.O. Box 398, Machias, ME 04654.

THEY CAME TO SANTA BARBARA

BATCHELDER
George A. of Atherton, California. In 1913 he was majority stockholder in the Riviera Company, at Santa Barbara. He planted hundreds of oak seedlings from his nursery in Atherton on the barren mesa; imported Italian stonemasons who were supervised by Joe Don of Santa Barbara. Lots were oriented so that no home would impair a neighbor's view of the city, harbor, ocean and channel islands; tile-roofed, white stucco houses erected at a minimum cost of $4,000 (a considerable sum in World War I days), with all utility wires and cables underground. Padres at the Old Mission were invited to name the winding streets: Alameda Padre Serra, Jimeno, Ferrello, San Carlos, Dramus, Lasuen, Rubio, Paterna, Arguello, Dover. Batchelder's own home was at the corner of Lasuen and Paterna Roads. The County Bowl, a natural amphitheater, was donated for the purpose of providing a place for Old Spanish Days Fiesta pageants.

The Riviera Improvement Association was formed in 1930, with Dr. Hilmar O. Koefod as its charter president.

THOMPSON,
Alpheus B. a sea captain in the China and Sandwich Islands trade, built a two-story adobe building, with shingled roof, in 1834 at what is now 807 State Street, Santa Barbara, as a home for his bride, Francisca Carrillo. The building was commandeered by Col. John C. Fremont in 1846 to house the staff of his California Battalion and again by the New York Volunteers who maintained martial law in Santa Barbara from April 1847 until the Fall of 1848. Later it was operated as a hotel, and was known as the St. Charles Hotel in 1913 when razed to make way for new construction, now a part of Piccadilly Square.

THOMPSON,
Dixey born in 1826 in Maine, rose from cabin boy to master of his own vessel in 1848. Arrived in Santa Barbara 1858 and became future owner of Ontare Rancho - the San Roque-Rutherford Park area of today. He joined the "Gold Rush" in 1849; returned to the sea and made his home port on Santa Rosa Island, opposite Santa Barbara, which belonged to his relative, Capt. Alpheus B. Thompson, one of Santa Barbara's earliest Yankee settlers. Dixey's barns and corrals were located at Hollister and Alamar, where Long's drugstore and parking lot now are. He had blacksmith shops and other false-fronted buildings at Alamar and de la Vina and a produce market for Goleta farmers. These false-fronted buildings were often featured in Western movies filmed by the Flying A Studios from 1913 to 1921. For many years he managed the original Arlington Hotel, owned by W. W. Hollister. After a flu attack, he died at age 77 in April 1903. His widow, the former Nancy Swett of Maine, lived on in the stately, white Colonial home at 1415 Chapala Street, now the offices of the Santa Barbara County Board of Realtors.

Can anyone supply information as to the parentage and ancestry of GEORGE A. BATCHELDER? Locally there seems to be a dearth of information. County histories state only that he was "of Atherton, California." His name does not appear in the Bachelor-Batchelder genealogy nor does that of any Californian to whom he might possibly be related.

The last city directory in which his name appears is 1936. The name of his widow appears in the 1937 directory.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY

One of California's 27 original counties. While the county was actually created in 1850, the history of the area dates back to 1542. In that year Juan Cabrillo discovered the Santa Barbara channel and later, according to legend, crossed to San Miguel Island, where he died and was buried. A second Spanish explorer, Sebastian Vizcaino, entered the channel on the Feast Day of Saint Barbara in 1602 and named the area accordingly. Father Junipero Serra founded the Santa Barbara mission in 1786. Santa Barbara Royal Presidio, established April 21, 1782, was the last of four royal presidios in Alta California - San Diego, Monterey, San Francisco and Santa Barbara.
