Ramblings From Your Editor

Oops! In this issue the "New in the Library" section is twice as long, because the Winter version was run in the Spring issue as well, though without the typesetting mistakes of the previous printing. All those computer disks look the same as I pull them out from under a slumbering, but feisty cat. However, I have promised myself to try to adopt the newest motto for the end of the 90's, "Don't sweat the small stuff." Of course this saying was probably coined by someone who has never tried to replace the wax ring under their toilet (a $1.25 repair) and discovered that the flange is rotted out and it is time for a plumbing professional (a $100.00 job).

When not visiting the world of Domestic Repair Hell, I have been helping a few friends with researching their families. One in particular is trying to find descendants of the biological family of her mother. Her mother had twice been a rider on the Orphan Train in the 1920's. It is an interesting project.

I have to tell you, my mother forwarded an offer for "The New World Book of Newharts." Sound vaguely familiar to you? Change the sumame to "Hom," and I have an eerily similar solicitation for a book on my family history that I wrote about in the last issue. However, instead of only two immigration records in 300 years, there are eight in 200 years.

Also, I want to apologize for the lateness of this issue. (Hey, I got it out before the Equinox.) I spent my summer playing with my 12-year-old. I figured it was probably the last summer before she decides I'm a Hydra. Cheers.

You may want to try the "I Found It! Genealogy Search Engine," which has its own domain at http://www.gensource.com. It contains links to over 2600 genealogy-related web sites and is still growing.

You can also use "Common Threads" at this new domain. You use "Common Threads" to find others researching the same family line. It is more than just a surname list and includes details about the submitter's ancestor, and the submitters' e-mail address so that you can exchange information. It contains over 7500 submitted listings and is free. You can submit an ancestor to "Common Threads" or submit a website to "I Found It!" by using their choices of "Add Name" and "Add URL" pages.

Another Genealogical Mystery

By N. Burr Coryell

The following mystery is the result of two lectures: one given by Jane Caldwell, SBCGS member, and one by Michael Redmon at the SBCGS meeting on June 13, 1998.

Last October, I visited the Santa Barbara Cemetery to determine if there will be room for me in the Veterans section upon my demise. I was told there was enough room for the next ten years. At the same time I was told that there was a Tom Coryell already buried in that section (Lot 116/9). He was buried on July 10, 1913; there is no marker at the gravesite.

Being a member of the Santa Barbara Historical Society, I decided to follow Mr. Redmon's suggestion that I check the obituaries of the old newspapers.

So I visited Mr. Redmon at the Gledhill Library, and he brought out a large book of The Morning Press for July 1913. Within 10 minutes of checking these newspapers, I found on page 3 of the Friday, July 11, 1913 issue, the following story:

Deep Mystery Surrounds Capt. T. F. Coryell, Who Dies When Already Legally Dead

CONFUSING CAREER OF CIVIL WAR VET FAILS TO UNRAVEL WITH FACTS AT HAND.

FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1913.

Doup sented mystory, which may, never be wholly solved, has been found to surround Captain Thomas F. Corycli, whose death occurred at 327 east linley street last Monday.

Eo far as he was known here, Captain Coryell's only relatives were two sons, residing in Virginia. Telegrains announcing his death cent to the addresses of these sons, as given in a memorandum book found among the possessions of the doceased. No roply has been receive cd, and efforts to follow other suggestions gathered from Captain there is a wife, possibly a third, still there is a wife, possibly a third, still there is a wife, possibly a third, still living. The mother of the "two living only served to confuse the authorities, and to open interesting the letter is supposed to be dead, but there is a possibility that the "form-

Coryell had he was dying he said that he would sent Palmer a check for $50, but the be taken care of. These wealthy check had been dishonored at the connections have not been located, check had been dishonored at the drawn. Palmer had lost trace of Coryell, and it was only last September that he was able to locate him, having done so through the pension department at Washington. Palmer has been communicated with week, and has returned Captain Coryell's letters, one of which, dated September 18, 1912, reads as fol-

Admits He's Legally Dead. "Just as soon as our pensions are adjusted, I will be able to send $15 or $20 each quarter, and in the interim, when I can get other matters settled, and receive funds (long owing to me) I will send you money as this loan should have been liquidated years ago. When pensions are adjusted and I receive notice 1 will inform you.

Other acraps of information that have come to hand indicate that the capthin had been in business Milwaukee, that he lived for a numher of years in Les Angeles, and that he came here about three years ago. Here he was supposed to be a wid-ower, but this theory is not so clear row, as there is a suggestion that possibilities as to the career follow- there is a possibility that the "formed by this veteran of the civil war, or wife" referred to in the same letProperty Reverts to State. "There are hints that the same let-and his own letters tell of two faint of the two sons as Reaburn and Guy lles, one not knowing the existence of the other. But still more start-ling is his own statement that he had been once declared legally dead, in the District of Columbia, and otiand that property of his in the state of data contained hi the memorant of Pennsylvania reverted to the control dum is also misleading. It is said monwealth on the assumption that the communication with the boys to be added the life. This information came out through through an intermediary in Los Auty is not known.

Hints of Wealthy Relatives. Captain Coryell told some of the the friends he made in this city that but in a little scrap book found in his home there were several clipplngs referring to J. B. Coryell of San Mateo, millionaire and orchid funcier, well known in Santa Bar-bara and Montecito, where he had a house on different occasions. Inquirles addressed to Mr. Coryell at San Mateo yesterday brought this reply: "Unable to locate relative T. F. Coryell, hope to wire further this afternoon. Know nothing of him."

As nothing further has heard from San Mateo, it is believed this possibility for a solution is closeu.

Inquiries have also been directed to Washington, D. C., where the two sons are said to be in the government employ, and this reply is awaited with interest. It may serve to unravel the mystery.

Meanwhile the remains are at the L. · E. Gagnier catablishment. Captain Coryell served with a New York regiment. Last year he was granted a pension of $24 a month.

Soldier Boy to Gray Beard

By Pat Lorentzen, SBCGS member

I received the following letter from Pat Lorentzen about the "Soldier Boy" item in the last issue (Vol. 22 No. 3, p. 46). The statistic that there were no soldiers enlisted in the age category of "45 and above" prompted Pat to tell us about her ancestor.

My great-great-grandfather Samuel Shellady enlisted in Company D, 37th Iowa Infantry, at Iowa City, Iowa on 13 September 1862 for a period of 3 years. He was discharged for disability on 16 May 1863, "by reason of Surgeon's Certificate of Disability--Humeral asthenia and general disability from old age, being seventy-two years of age, and is not fit for Invalid Corps."

I received this information from the U.S. Army Military History Institute in Carlisle, PA:

From Iowa and the Rebellion, by Lunon Dunham Ingersoll, Philadelphia, J. B. Lippincott & Co., 1867. Chapter XLI: The Graybeard Regiment.

"The organization officially known as the Thirty-Seventh Regiment of Iowa Volunteers Infantry, was universally known in Iowa, and largely over the country, as the Graybeard Regiment. It was composed exclusively of men over forty-five years of age, and who were, consequently, under no legal obligations to take upon themselves the duties of soldiers. It was the only regiment of the kind in the service. Iowa alone of all the States had its 'Gray-Beards' in the field.

The most of them had lived many years in Iowa, whose healthful climate repels the ordinary effects of age and almost keeps old men young. The spirit of patriotism burned so brightly and warmly among our citizens that many, excluded by reason of age from the ranks of ordinary regiments of volunteers, proposed to form a regiment of healthy old men, and go into the service to perform such duties as it might be supposed they could well perform. The Secretary of the War Department, in the month of August, 1862, specially authorized the organization of such a regiment, and it was not long till the various companies were recruited."

From Civil War Times Illustrated, Vol. XX, No. 2: "The Golden Age Regiment--Iowa's Graybeards," by George F. Scoch:

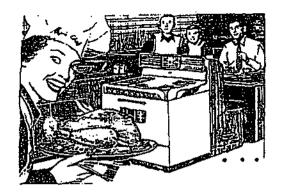

"The arrival of the Graybeards in St. Louis, Missouri, on January 1, 1863, caused a mild sensation in a city that had already witnessed thousands of troops passing through its streets. The enthusiastic reception prompted Major General Samuel R. Curtis, commanding the Department of Missouri headquarterd in St. Louis, to comment that he had never seen a finer looking body of men. The city newspapers were equally generous with their praise and complimented the regiment on its soldierly bearing. It was a proud moment for the old men of the 37th Iowa and they resolved to earn the accolades bestowed on them."

From Iowa Genealogical Society Newsletter, December 1996, Volume 17, Number 6:

"The Unit of 914 men was assembled near Muscatine, Iowa. The oldest man was 80-year-old Pvt. Curtis King. Six men were in their 70's, including 72-year-old drummer, Nicholas Ramey. Another 136 men were in their 60's. Nearly all of the members of the regiment were over 45.

By war's end, more than 1,300 of the sons and grandsons of Graybeard members had enlisted. So the regiment accomplished its major purpose, to serve as a grand propaganda tool for recruiting."

Isn't that fun? My Samuel was an interesting old guy--was convicted of second-degree murder in a lynching case, sentenced to state penitentiary, and pardoned by the governor upon his arrival there in 1859. He was an old man and considered the least guilty of the mob, and "When Samuel returned to Iowa City on June 25th, a reception was given for him at the Mansion House and congratulatory resolutions were published in the newspapers."

How To Be A Good Wife

Excerpted from a 1950's high school home economics textbook.

Submitted by Bonnie Poucher

Warning: I could not restrain myself from adding my own comments to this bit of domestic advice. I can still hear my home economics teacher stressing the importance of having foods of different colors arranged on the dinner plate. She would shudder at the knowledge that it is not unknown in my house to have "Orange food only" theme night.--Ed.

Have dinner ready. Plan ahead, even the night before, to have a delicious meal—on time. (Be sure to have slaughtered the fatted calf in the morning.) This is a way of letting him know that you have been thinking about him and are concerned about his needs. Most men are hungry when they come home and the prospect of a good meal is part of the warm welcome needed.

Prepare yourself. Take fifteen minutes to rest so that you'll be refreshed when he arrives. Touch up your makeup, put a ribbon in your hair and be fresh looking. He has just been with a lot of world-weary people. Be a little gay and a little more interesting. His boring day may need a lift. (Make a game of using the stain on the carpet from the cat being sick as an informal inkblot test.)

Clear away the clutter. (Have you kept your bulldozer license current?) Take one last trip through the main part of the house just before your husband arrives, gathering up school books, toys, paper, etc. Then run a dust cloth over the tables. (Cats are handy for this task.) Your husband will feel he has reached a haven of rest and order, and it will give you a lift, too.

Prepare the children. Take a few minutes to wash the children's hair and face (and flea dip the little beasts.) If they are small, comb their hair, and if necessary, change their clothing. They are little treasures and he would like to see them playing the part. (Note the operative phrase, "playing the part.")

Minimize all noise at the time of his arrival, eliminate all noise of the washer, drier, dishwasher, or vacuum. (Don't stuff the cats in the appliances.) Try to encourage the children to be quiet. (Maybe stuff the cats in their mouths?) Be happy to see him, greet him with a smile and be glad to see him.

Some don'ts: Don't greet him with problems or complaints. Don't complain if he's late for dinner. (Heck, love him more for not having the courtesy to call to say he is running late.) Count them as minor compared with what he might have gone through that day. (Paper cuts can be painful.) Make him comfortable. Have him lean back in a comfortable chair or suggest he lie down in the bedroom. Have a cool or warm drink ready for him (one for him, two for you). Arrange his pillow (under his head, not over his face) and offer to take off his shoes (a true sign of love). Speak in a low, soft, soothing and pleasant voice. Allow him to relax and unwind.

Listen to him. You may have a dozen things to tell him, but the moment of his arrival is not the time. Let him talk first.

Make the evening his: Never complain if he does not take you out to dinner or to other places of entertainment. Instead, try to understand his world of strain and pressure, his need to be home and relax.

Your goal: Try to make your home a place of peace and order where your husband can renew himself in body and spirit. (I would have to leave.)

Test may reveal Jefferson secret. DNA from kin of Sally Hemings may show heritage.

Based on an article by Jim Dwyer of the New York Daily News.

Blood samples from known descendants of Thomas Jefferson are being tested to reveal the the DNA pattern that can only be passed down through the males in a family. In a laboratory in Oxford, England, samples from two dozen men are being tested along with a blood sample from a descendant of Sally Hemings.

There has been speculation for years about the accuracy of the oral tradition that Thomas Jefferson fathered children by one of his slaves, Sally Hemings. There is no conclusive proof of the relationship, though reports of the relationship were mentioned in 1804 in a newspaper story written by a critic of Jefferson, and nearly seventy years later when one of Hemings' sons said that Jefferson was the father of her children.

It has been suggested that the fathers of Hemings children could be two of Jefferson's nephews that lived near Monticello. However, Sally Hemings only conceived when Jefferson was in residence. It is highly unlikely that the Carr brothers couldn't sire children when he was away, but could when Jefferson was home.

Other circumstantial evidence in favor that Jefferson was the father is that the Hemings family was the only slave family to be freed in his lifetime or in terms of his will. No other family left Monticello free and clear. Also, all the the children had unusual Jefferson family names. Others argue, based on their interpretaions of Jefferson's character, that he would never have had a relationship with a slave because he did not believe in the mixing of races.

Annette Gordon-Reed, an associate professor of law at New York Law School, has written a well-received book on the subject, Thomas Jefferson and Sally Hemings: An American Controversy.

Lincoln Descendants?

There are no known descendants of Abraham Lincoln. The oldest son of Lincoln and Mary Todd was the only one of their four children to reach adulthood.

Robert Lincoln (1843-1926) had three children: Mary, Abraham and Jessie. Mary had a son, Lincoln Isham (1892-1973); and Jessie had two children, Mary Lincoln Beckwith (1893-1975), and Robert Todd Lincoln Beckwith (1904-85). All three died without leaving any offspring.

Memorial for Black Soldiers of the Civil War.

A $2.6-million monument to the 208.943 black Union soldiers and their white officers was dedicated in a ceremony at Arlington Cemetery. The memorial, "Spirit of Freedom," depicts the head of an advancing column of black soldiers. It will be unveiled at a site near Howard University in a predominantly black neighborhood.

The surrounding granite walls and metal plaques bearing the names of all black soldiers and sailors of the Civil War era are expected to be in place by Veterans Day this year.

More than 37,000 black soldiers died in the Civil War. More than 4,000 are buried at Arlington under stones that bear the initials USCT for "U.S. Colored Troops."

Los Angeles Times, Associated Press, July 17, 1998.

Irish Colony in Santa Barbara?

According to The Celtic Knot, there was to be an Irish colony planned in California. Irish Catholic missionary Father Eugene McNamara petitioned the Mexican Government in 1845 for a land grant. There were to be three colonies: Santa Barbara, Monterey, and San Francisco. By the time Father McNamara got to California, the United States had seized Monterey and the land grant was worthless.

Ortega • Encarnacion

I am a descendant of a the great-grand-daughter (Maria De La Encarnacion Ortega) of Jose Francisco Ortega. Encarnacion's grandfather, Ignacio Maria Ortega, moved his family to San Benito County from Santa Barbara County and established a rancho near San Juan Bautista. They moved, I gather, owing to the attack on the Ortega Refugio Rancho.

I wonder if anyone has any information on other descendants of Jose Francisco Ortega?

Book Reviews

Census Records for Latin America and the Hispanic United States.

By Lyman D. Platt, Ph.D. 1998. 6 x 9 in., Paper, 198 pages. $19.98, plus $3.50 postage for the first book, $1.25 for each additional. Order from Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202, ph. 1-800-296-6687, FAX 1-410-752-8492.

This book has the largest and most complete survey of census records available for Latin America and the Hispanic United States. Approximately 4,000 censuses are listed under country and then alphabetically under locality, province, country, year (from one entry in 1432 in Distrito Federal in Mexico to one in 1970 in Venezuela), and reference locator (to an archive or a publication). However, not all extant censuses are listed (this would require several volumes) and many have not yet been found, nor copied and deposited in an archive or referenced in a publication. There is no text, except for the Introduction which explains the scope of the work.

Countries and provinces covered are: Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Florida, Guatemala, Honduras, Louisiana, 36 provinces of Mexico including Arizona, Alta California, Nuevo Mexico, and Texas, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Puerto Rico, El Salvador, Uruguay, and Venezuela. Special attention has been given to Aguascalientes, Mexico and the state of Hidalgo, Mexico, which has been completely indexed for this book.

"Many of these censuses contain excellent details on family names, ages, relationships, and civil status." Looking for one's ancestors in Mexico, for example, has been a difficult task. This book will certainly increase one's knowledge of the number of locales in which the quest can be continued.

The Ultimate Search Book: Worldwide Adoption and Vital Records.

By Lori Carangelo. 1998 Edition. Paper, 8 1/2 x 11 in. 293 pp. $39.95, plus $6.50 shipping. Order from Heritage Quest, P.O. Box 329, Bountiful, UT 84011.

Although the main aim of this book is to provide techniques and information to assist in the search for adopted children or their parents, there are some items that may be of interest to a genealogist. The author recognizes this and includes a chapter on genealogical research, as well as, finding debtors, old classmates or ex-lovers, etc. Also of possible interest is the listing of vital records offices of each state (including the costs for documents). What is perhaps unique to this book is the comprehensive listing of where to write for vital records in about 200 countries—yes, Tuvalu is there as well as Palau. It is, as the title says, the ultimate search book.

Irish Records: Sources for Family and Local History.

By James G. Ryan, Ph.D. Revised edition, 1997. Hardbound, 8 1/2 by 11 in., 668 pp., $49.95, plus $5.00 shipping. Order from Ancestry, P.O. Box 990, Orem, UT 84059.

Anyone doing Irish research will find this book a valuable tool. Forty-eight pages contain general information about Ireland, abbreviations found in sources referring to Ireland, and examples of vital, parish and government records after which counties alphabetically indexed are individually described.

Each county has a brief history; a list of census and substitute records with the years the records cover, examples of records not formerly shown, church parishes and records listed alphabetically, directories numerically enumerated, recommended family story books, gravestone inscription sources, newspapers, research sources and services, and a map of the county civil parishes.

This large hardbound book is organized to expedite locating your family's records—a must for those researching in Ireland.

The Conceptual Approach to Genealogy: Essential Methodology for Organizing and Compiling Genealogical Records.

By David C. Chamberlin. 1998. Paper, 5 x 7 inches, 264 pages. $24.95, plus $4.50 shipping and handling. Order from Heritage Quest, P.O. Box 329, Bountiful UT, 84011-0329 Order line: 1-800-760-2455 or FAX 801-298-5468 Website: <www.heritagequest.com> or E-mail: <sales@heritagequest.com> (Item # A0076).

This book presents a very complete system of the processing of information for manually kept (or computerized) family genealogies. It discusses, but does not focus on, computer programs.

The index, bibliography and glossary are very well done, and it has many illustrations and examples within the text. There are four excellent appendices to help the reader understand the system outlined in the book's nine chapters. This is not a book that you can just pick up and read casually, but it is a very good example of how the system can be used to make your work easier and well organized. It shows how to plan your genealogical project with methods and guidelines for organization.

The main features discussed are the ideals of genealogical processes, including planning, organization, source extraction, logging, indexing, using unique identifiers, jurisdictional tracking, and the compilation of family group records.

This sounds like a very formidable list of difficult topics, but the author takes us through the system, building on small, well explained steps toward a very complete system of record keeping.

After the system is explained, he goes into types of genealogical charts and numbering systems, and using data bases for keeping records. These chapters also have excellent step-by-step discussions and examples.

I would recommend this book for anyone who needs to organize their materials, or is thinking of starting a genealogical research project. I learned a lot from this book, for it was clearly written and gave very good examples and compelling reasons for needing a system for resources.

IGI on Computer.

Written and Published by David Hawgood. 1998. Paperback, 48 pp., indexed. £2.74 including UK postage, £2.93 overseas surface mail, £3.61 airmail. Order from Family Tree Magazine, 61 Great Whyte, Ramsey, Huntington, Cambridgeshire, PE17 1HL, England. Visa and Mastercard accepted; also checks and notes in US currency. Retail price £2.40.

This book gives step-by-step instructions on using computers to access the International Genealogical Index (IGI) published by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (the LDS Church). The steps include searching the IGI, printing and copying records, and using IGI data at home. In addition, the author discusses various IGI conversion and mapping programs, some of which are shareware and available only from suppliers in the UK. One program in particular, GenMap UK, which produces maps of Britain and Ireland, looks like a very handy way to chart location and frequency of names and events occurring in these countries. The current prices for the programs and the addresses (e-mail and website, as well) are provided in the back of the book.

The author gives a brief discussion of five genealogy software programs and how each one handles IGI-imported data. The final chapter gives brief descriptions of the other databases of Family Search, e.g., Scottish Church Records, Ancestral File, Social Security Death Index, and the Military Death Index.

Numerous examples and a page of references are included in this little book. It should provide the reader with some new ideas for collecting, using, and analyzing information found in the Family Search program of the LDS Church.

Reading Early American Handwriting

By Kip Sperry. 1998. Paper, 289 pp. 8 1/2 x 11 in. $29.95, plus $3.50 shipping. Order from Genealogical Publishing Co., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202.

Reading a 17th- or 18th-century document may be just as difficult as tracking it down in the first place. However, Kip Sperry has written an informative book to help one decipher the script of early handwriting styles. Nearly 100 documents are presented in increasing degrees of complexity (with the author's transcription on the facing page). These examples show a wide variety of handwriting styles made more easily deciphered by three sample alphabets: British/Early American, American handwriting (1640-1790), and a 17th-century alphabet.

Included in the text are the exact meanings of 143 abbreviations and contractions widely used in early documents, which could be the key to solving your puzzle. Also, if you are confused about Roman numerals or about the calendar change in 1752, clarification awaits you in this book.

Guidelines on Submissions

Material for this quarterly publication is solicited from members and non-members of the Society.

Articles and information submitted will be scanned and converted into raw text for typesetting. Therefore, all submissions must be typed and printed clearly. Dot matrix printouts in very small print do not convert well, so please try to set your letter size at 11 pt. or larger.

Queries: Please have them be succinct, and easy to understand. Give full names, dates and locations when possible. Queries should be typed, and accompanied by a cover letter with your name, address and phone number. Submission topics:

Local records: Church records (birth, baptisms, death, marriage records); Cemetery records; School records; Business records; Civil and Court records; Clubs and Lodge records; Deeds; Wills and Estate records.

Family research: Ahnentafels, narratives or lineages of a family (sources would be appreciated).

General information pertaining to genealogy: "How To" articles; historical essays; anything that may make one laugh, etc.

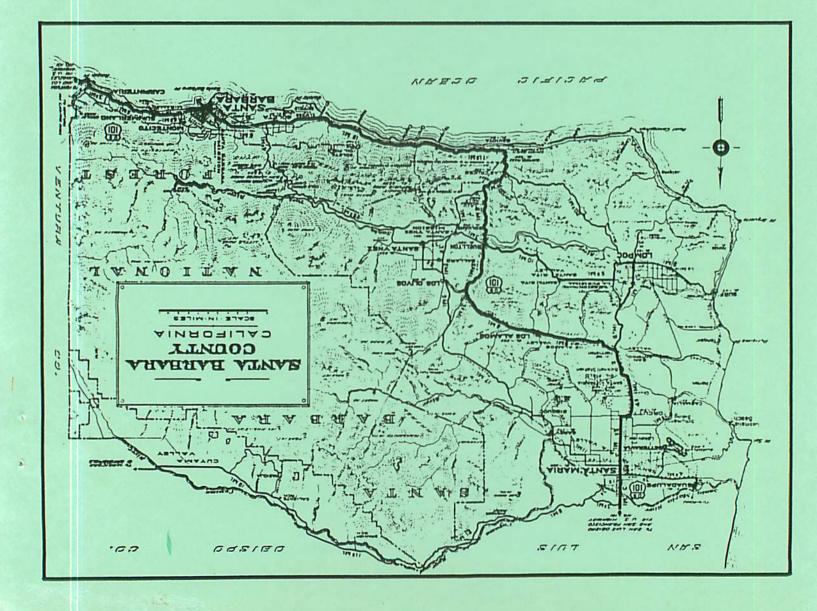

Warning: The editorial staff (of one at this moment) reserves the right to copy-edit any submission.

Santa Barbara County

One of California's 27 original counties. While the county was actually created in 1850, the written history of the area dates back to 1542. In that year Juan Cabrillo discovered the Santa Barbara Channel and later, according to legend, crossed to San Miguel Island where he died and was buried. A second Spanish explorer, Sebastian Vizcaino, entered the channel on the Feast Day of Saint Barbara in 1602, and named the area accordingly. Ft. Fermin Francisco de Lasuen founded the Santa Barbara Royal Presidio, established April 21, 1782, by Ft. Junipero Setra, was the last of four toyal presidios in Alta California: Santa Barbara, San Diego, Monterey, and San Francisco. Santa Barbara had all three Spanish forms of administration - Presidio representing the military, Pueblo the civil, and Mission the religious. In 1873, Ventura County was established from the southern portion of the original Santa Barbara area.
